A photograph of a theater interior. In the foreground, the backs of several rows of red upholstered seats are visible, receding into the distance. The theater is dimly lit, with the primary light source being a large projection screen at the front. The screen displays the text "Is it dark?" in a black, serif font. The background behind the screen is dark, and a portion of a red curtain is visible on the left side of the frame.

They devoted themselves to the apostles' teaching and to fellowship, to the breaking of bread and to prayer. Everyone was filled with awe at the many wonders and signs performed by the apostles. All the believers were together and had everything in common. They sold property and possessions to give to anyone who had need.

Every day they continued to meet together in the temple courts. They broke bread in their homes and ate together with glad and sincere hearts, praising God and enjoying the favor of all the people. And the Lord added to their number daily those who were being saved.
